(Case called)

(In open court)

MR. DIMASE: Good afternoon, your Honor. Christopher DiMase for the government. I'm joined at counsel table by three other attorneys: Special assistant United States attorney Julieta Lozano, cross designated from the Manhattan DA's office; and AUSA's Nicholas Folly and Nicholas Korologos from the U.S. Attorney's office.

THE COURT: Good afternoon.

MR. RASKIN: Good morning, your Honor, Martin Rankin on behalf of David Pike.

THE COURT: Good afternoon.

MR. GARVIN: Good afternoon, your Honor. David Garvin on behalf of Mark Scott, who is also present.

THE COURT: And good afternoon to you all. This matter is on for a status conference. Mr. DiMase, what are we doing? What do you wish to do?

MR. DIMASE: Your Honor, there are four issues that we wanted to briefly address. I don't think it will take too long. The first is to update the Court on the status of a privilege review issue that we all spoke about at the last conference; the second is to address the still contentious motion to compel where the parties have not come to an agreement and probably do need the Court to rule; third, address a very quick question on the crime fraud order issued

J7R7SCOC

1 by the Court dated July 23, 2019; and, fourth, raise an issue
2 about the trial date and the order regarding that trial date 3 and the speedy trial time. So those are the four issues that 4 we wanted to address.

5 THE COURT: OK.

6 MR. DIMASE: I will turn it over to Mr. Folly, with 7 the Court's permission, to address the privilege review issue.

8 THE COURT: Very well.

9 MR. FOLLY: Your Honor, just very briefly. At your 10 Honor's direction, the privilege review team for the 11 government, the filter team, did meet and confer with defense 12 counsel about some of those issues that we were addressing at 13 the last conference.

14 The parties have reached an agreement about the 15 contemplated production and review of documents designated not 16 privileged by the government's filter team. We're happy to go 17 into the details of that, but we have primarily agreed to among 18 other things restrict the date range as your Honor discussed 19 with the parties at the last conference, and at this stage, 20 unless there are specific disputes that arise in that process 21 after documents are handed over to defense counsel, we do not 22 need the Court to make any rulings with respect to any of those 23 issues that were on the table before.

24 THE COURT: Excellent.

25 Mr. Garvin?

J7R7SCOC

1 MR. GARVIN: Yes, that accurately reflects the 2 understanding of the defense, your Honor.

3 THE COURT: Thank you. Next.

4 MR. DIMASE: Yes, your Honor. So, I think we will 5 turn to the motion to compel last, because that's the only 6 issue I see continued litigation over at this point.

7 On the fourth issue I mentioned earlier, the trial
8 date, I think I raised this with the Court's deputy clerk about 9 there was an e-mail sent I believe it was in April informing 10 the parties that the trial date would be scheduled for October 11 7, and that I think it said something along the lines of an 12 opinion will follow.

13 And if the Court recalls, one of the issues that was 14 connected with that decision was the speedy trial issue, so it 15 wasn't merely a matter of setting the trial date but also an 16 issue of excluding time.

17 We did very briefly address this at the last 18 conference, and I think the Court indicated that it believed 19 such an order had been issued and posted to the docket. After 20 that conference, I reviewed the docket sheet, and I was not 21 able to find such an order on the docket, so I did notify 22 chambers about that, but I wanted to raise it again today.

23 THE COURT: But an order has subsequently been issued.

24 MR. DIMASE: Not that we are aware of, your Honor.
25 I'm not currently aware of an order setting -- an actual

J7R7SCOC

1 written order setting the October 7th date and excluding time 2 for a set of reasons through that date. I am not aware of 3 that.

4 THE COURT: I will check. I do recall signing an 5 order.

6 MR. DIMASE: It may be that it simply hasn't been 7 docketed and that's why.

8 THE COURT: I recall signing it because you kept 9 calling.

10 MR. DIMASE: Fair enough. And I may be wrong. We 11 will check our records, but I don't recall seeing it.

12 THE COURT: We will check also.

13 MR. DIMASE: Number three was the crime fraud the 14 motion and the Court's order of July 23. And the only issue 15 the government wished to raise there was, as I informed the 16 clerk with chambers before the conference today, the summary of 17 the three categories in the Court's order differs in some small 18 ways from the request -- the more specific and detailed request 19 made in the government's motion -- and we wanted to confirm 20 that the Court did grant in full the categories laid out in the 21 government's motion.

22 THE COURT: It was not my intention to limit the 23 categories that were defined by the government in its motion.

24 MR. DIMASE: OK.

25 THE COURT: We simply wanted to --

J7R7SCOC

1 MR. DIMASE: -- to summarize.

2 THE COURT: Exactly.

3 MR. DIMASE: So, we will proceed with the 4 understanding the Court has granted the more detailed 5 categories as laid out in the government's motion.

6 THE COURT: Correct.

7 MR. DIMASE: Thank you, your Honor. So unless 8 Mr. Garvin has anything to add on those two issues -- the trial 9 date order and the crime fraud order -- we're prepared to 10 address the motion to compel, so maybe it makes sense to 11 address Mr. Garvin first.

12 THE COURT: OK.

13 MR. GARVIN: I have no additional needs to discuss 14 those two points.

15 MR. DIMASE: Very good. So, Ms. Lozano is prepared to 16 address the motion to compel issue, with the Court's 17 permission. Thank you.

18 MS. LOZANO: Your Honor, to briefly summarize, the 19 parties have all submitted letters to the Court regarding the 20 existing grand jury subpoenas. We were unable to reach an 21 agreement. The government and Mr. Scott's attorneys did 22 discuss and negotiate, and the government is willing to reissue 23 the subpoenas in the name of generic records custodians and 24 agree to the timeline offered by defendant Scott with respect 25 to the subpoenas served on Mr. Scott as the custodian of

J7R7SCOC

1 records. However, the government stands firm in its belief and 2 its intention to seek responsive records from Mr. Pike in his 3 capacity as a records custodian.

4 THE COURT: I'm sorry. So you did re-issue the 5 subpoena to Mr. Scott?

6 MS. LOZANO: We did not, because that second part of 7 the proposal, when the government tried to clarify with 8 Mr. Scott that we intended to proceed and seek responsive 9 documents from Mr. Pike, it was clear that Mr. Scott's proposal 10 was no longer offered because part of his proposal envisioned 11 the withdrawal and cancellation of the Pike subpoena.

12 THE COURT: OK.

13 MS. LOZANO: So, the defendant proposes instead to 14 have the entities produce the documents through his attorneys, 15 which is a process that will necessarily entail Mr. Scott 16 reviewing the documents and making determinations about what to 17 produce from the records that Mr. Pike holds as a custodian.

18 And Mr. Pike's attorneys agree with that process and 19 argue that it is a burden for Mr. Pike to look through the 20 records that he had, since Mr. Scott already has them, and that 21 Mr. Pike claims he is not an appropriate records custodian.

22 Initially, first we just note that the legal authority
23 is clear that Mr. Pike serves as a records custodian for MSSSI 24 BVI. He is an agent of the corporation as a director with 25 custody and control of documents, because we know he has them;

J7R7SCOC

1 he has produced them to Mr. Scott.

2 THE COURT: Sorry. Could I just stop you on that?
3 So, he has them because he produced them to Mr. Scott, but did 4 he keep copies?

5 MS. LOZANO: He did. That's what I understand. He 6 has copies of everything that he produced to Mr. Scott. And 7 his argument is if Mr. Scott is willing to review and produce 8 them, it would be a burden and duplicative for Mr. Pike to 9 produce them. And we disagree with that.

10 It's irrelevant under the legal authority that the 11 entity has not designated Mr. Pike as a records custodian. He 12 serves as one. And it is OK to have multiple custodians served 13 with subpoenas for records, and that's what we have done here.

14 Second and more important, the government's position
15 that we intend to seek records and continue to seek records 16 from Mr. Pike is based on a serious concern that we have, which 17 is that Mr. Scott's proposal envisions Mr. Scott himself 18 reviewing and making production decisions about records that 19 Mr. Pike possesses as a records custodian. And the problem 20 there is that Mr. Scott obviously is a charged defendant here 21 and, as such, his incentives and motivations are different, and 22 when he is reviewing records and responding to a subpoena we 23 are concerned that his status as a charged defendant will cause 24 him to make different decisions than Mr. Pike as a records 25 custodian for MSSSI BVI would make. And frankly it's

J7R7SCOC

1 unrealistic to believe that counsel for Mr. Scott, who also 2 represents the entities, would be making these review and 3 production decisions without Mr. Scott.

4 We also note --

5 THE COURT: Why should that be a matter of concern? I 6 mean it's not unusual for LLCs to have one director. And if 7 Mr. Scott were the only director, then you wouldn't be making 8 that argument here, right?

9 MS. LOZANO: Well, because in this case there is an 10 alternative. There is somebody who is not charged who is a 11 director, who has records, and his incentives when reviewing 12 and deciding what documents are responsive to a grand jury 13 subpoena validly issued are going to be different than a 14 defendant sitting charged with crimes and looking through those 15 records. That's the government's concern.

16 THE COURT: I understand that that's a concern, but I 17 don't know that it's a concern of any legal significance.
18 Because again if he were the only one, he would by necessity 19 making those determinations, and I don't know that there is any 20 relief that you would be able to seek if there were only one 21 director and that one director was also a defendant.

22 MS. LOZANO: And I'm not sure that we are arguing that 23 it is a legal concern. It is a concern given the facts that we 24 have here, and given that Mr. Pike has the ability to produce 25 these records, and in fact is the person who is obligated to

J7R7SCOC

1 produce these records under the subpoena. It was served on 2 him.

3 THE COURT: OK.

4 MS. LOZANO: We also note that counsel -- as I said, 5 counsel for Scott also represents the entities, which may raise 6 a potential conflict concern. We haven't really thought 7 through that issue and reached a determination, but that also 8 may further complicate Scott's counsel's ability to undertake 9 the review of the records that Mr. Pike has produced to them.

10 So, for these reasons the government is requesting at 11 this time -- because we have been unable to reach an agreement 12 with counsel -- that the Court compel production of responsive 13 records pursuant to the existing subpoenas from both Mr. Pike 14 and Mr. Scott in their representative capacities.

15 THE COURT: OK. Mr. Garvin?

16 MR. GARVIN: Yes, your Honor. First, your Honor, with 17 regard to the portion of the proposal that was accepted by the 18 government, the government agreed to reissue the two subpoenas 19 in question, one to MS International BVI and the other one to 20 MS International Consulting LLC, to the entity comma records 21 custodian and withdraw the ones to Mr. Scott. We are in 22 agreement with that, and we had --

23 THE COURT: But that offer is off the table now, 24 correct?

25 MR. GARVIN: Well, that portion of the agreement has

J7R7SCOC

1     been pending. They've taken it one step further.

2             So, we are in agreement with that portion, and the 3     reason for that is that obviously had they served a subpoena on 4     Mr. Scott as an individual he would have had Fifth Amendment 5     rights that we are concerned about waiving.

6             Now we take the additional step, and the government 7     says that the portion that we have requested, which was to 8     withdraw the subpoena to Mr. Pike that also purports to be to 9     the entity, since the entity is going to accept service, 10    Mr. Nobles, counsel for the entity, will accept service and the 11    process will endeavor to identify and gather and produce the 12    documents that the government has requested.

13            Our position remains, A, that the entity never 14    authorized Mr. Pike to be a records custodian; B, that what the 15    government really is accomplishing or attempting to accomplish 16    here is to circumvent Mr. Pike's rights to the Fifth Amendment 17    by saying that this subpoena really is to an entity and 18    entities have no Fifth Amendment rights.

19            So, your Honor, we set forth our proposal on July 30 20    in a letter to this honorable court, and we believe that the 21    appropriate way to proceed here is to go through with the first 22    step, which the parties are in agreement with, which is 23    withdrawing the subpoena as to Mr. Scott and reissuing them to 24    the records custodian for which Mr. Jamie Nobles will accept 25    service.

J7R7SCOC

1 THE COURT: I'm sorry, I have to stop you, Mr. Garvin, 2 because I'm getting confused. You're talking about an 3 agreement that as I understand from Ms. Lozano no longer 4 exists.

5 Am I wrong, Ms. Lozano?

6 MS. LOZANO: You are not, your Honor. My 7 understanding is we had preliminary discussions about a 8 proposal, we explored potential avenues for resolution, and at 9 the end of the day the proposal that the defendant offered 10 included something that the government could not agree to, 11 which was withdrawal and cancellation of the subpoena served on 12 Mr. Pike as a records custodian.

13 MR. GARVIN: If it is withdrawn, then I would urge the 14 Court to enter an order stating that the subpoenas should be 15 quashed as we have requested and that the subpoenas should be 16 issued to the individual entities' records custodian, and it is 17 the responsibility and burden of the entities to gather the 18 documents and produce them as required, and that the subpoenas 19 that are issued to both Mr. Scott and Mr. Pike be quashed for 20 the reasons that we have articulated previously.

21 THE COURT: Thank you.

22 Mr. Rankin?

23 MR. RANKIN: Yes, your Honor. As I told the Court
24 last time we discussed this, everything that David Pike 25 possesses was turned over to MSSI Consultants BVI, and we did

J7R7SCOC

1 that as soon as I realized that there were a significant body 2 of privileged materials. I am not in a position to make that 3 determination. I spoke with government counsel yesterday.
4 They think that if I simply turn this material over to their 5 filter team that will solve the problem. I don't. They are 6 kind of analogizing this to materials seized in a search 7 warrant. This is material that MSSSI counsel is uniquely suited 8 to review and turn over. We think it serves no purpose for 9 Mr. Pike to have to do the exact same thing. It will be a 10 burden both financially and certainly insofar as it would 11 require him and me to try to determine attorney/client 12 privilege materials, and we're just not in a position to do 13 that. We strongly believe that counsel for MSSSI should provide 14 whatever documents are requested by the government.

15 THE COURT: And, again I just want to make sure, Mr.
16 Rankin, as I think I asked before, I understand that you have 17 turned over copies of what you believe to be the universe of 18 documents in the custody of Mr. Pike to counsel for Mr. Scott 19 but that Mr. Pike still has copies of those documents. Is that 20 correct?

21 MR. RANKIN: Yes. I have a hard drive which is a copy 22 of Mr. Pike's hard drive. Mr. Pike no longer even has a copy.
23 There were two copies, mine and the exact duplicate that I sent 24 to Mr. Garvin.

25 THE COURT: And why do you think that the taint team

J7R7SCOC

1 would not be a sufficient safeguard here?

2 MR. RANKIN: Well, again, I have seen taint teams used 3 only when something has been seized by the government, never in 4 response to a grand jury subpoena. And there is really no need 5 for a taint team given the fact that Mr. Scott's lawyers -- 6 Mr. Garvin and Mr. Nobles -- are in a unique position to make 7 those attorney/client determinations for the corporation. It's 8 just not necessary.

9 THE COURT: Well, I suppose, you know, I appreciate 10 your concern for the Fifth Amendment privilege of others, but 11 why aren't you in a position to determine whether documents are 12 responsive and turn them over, and to the extent there are any 13 privilege issues, they can be litigated by the actual parties 14 to this case.

15 MR. RANKIN: Again, that's your Honor's decision.
16 You're right, it's just not the way I've seen it done before.
17 And all I know is that I am not in a position to make 18 attorney/client privilege determinations. Whether it's Scott's 19 lawyers or the government's filter team, I guess it really 20 doesn't matter to us. We just can't make that determination.

21 THE COURT: OK. So, this is what I'm going to do.

22 I am sorry, Ms. Korologos, you can speak.

23 MS. KOROLOGOS: Your Honor, I just wanted to add that 24 the filter team has in instances done privilege reviews on 25 grand jury subpoena documents. In cases where the parties

J7R7SCOC

1 subpoenaed cannot on their own do a privilege review, we have 2 stepped in and done it. And also in cases where perhaps the 3 parties that produced the documents may not have the same 4 interests as the defendants, we will go back in and we will 5 review those to make sure we are protecting all the privileges.
6 So, there is a number of cases where we do perform a privilege 7 review on subpoenaed documents.

8 THE COURT: Very well.

9 MR. GARVIN: I wanted to reemphasize and then I will 10 sit down. But, your Honor, just to be clear, the entities do 11 not recognize Mr. Pike as a records custodian, and what really 12 is happening here is Mr. Pike is being subpoenaed to produce 13 records as an individual but because the subpoena is made out 14 to the entity he is not going to be able to assert his Fifth 15 Amendment rights, and they're being circumvented. And I think 16 that that really is the gravamen of the issue, that the 17 government is succeeding in having an individual who is not a 18 records custodian turn over records as a records custodian so 19 he cannot assert his Fifth Amendment rights.

20 THE COURT: Thank you. I think I have all of the 21 briefing.

22 Ms. Lozano?

23 MS. LOZANO: Just one additional comment, your Honor.
24 In response to Mr. Garvin's last point, I note that counsel has 25 provided no legal authority for their position, and the Eighth

J7R7SCOC

1 Circuit case, while not from this Circuit, addresses this issue
2 on all fours, and it's the case of In Re Grand Jury Witnesses, 3 90 F.3d 710, and the quote there is "It is irrelevant that the 4 individual is not the corporation's designated document 5 custodian."

6 So, Mr. Garvin's argument lacks any legal authority, 7 and in fact the legal authority that's out there indicates that 8 it is irrelevant what MSSI BVI designates Mr. Pike as.

9 THE COURT: I will give Mr. Garvin one last sentence.

10 MR. GARVIN: Yes, your Honor. A few moments ago the 11 primary argument of the government was that Mr. Pike would 12 somehow categorizingly respond to a subpoena in a different 13 fashion because Mr. Scott is under indictment. But this is a 14 grand jury subpoena that the government previously represented 15 that Mr. Pike may well be one of the targets of this grand jury 16 subpoena. So, there is no distinction between the position 17 that Mr. Pike finds himself in and the position that Mr. Scott 18 finds himself in as to this particular grand jury subpoena.
19 The grand jury subpoena is not supposed to be used to obtain 20 documents for the case that has already been indicted.

21 THE COURT: I will issue an order before the end of 22 the week. Anything else, Mr. DiMase?

23 MR. DIMASE: I just wanted to note that -- I guess ask 24 whether the order will also address the Scott subpoenas. We 25 seem to have an agreement in principle on those except for the

J7R7SCOC

1 Pike subpoena and the records responsive to that, but since we 2 have not been able to come to a universal agreement, I think 3 unless something changes we are asking the Court to rule on the 4 Pike subpoena and the two Scott subpoenas as well at this 5 stage. So, I just wanted to put that issue before the Court.

6 THE COURT: I don't want you to confuse me any 7 further.

8 MR. DIMASE: The main issue of contention obviously is 9 about the subpoena served on Mr. Pike, but because the 10 withdrawal of the Pike subpoena was part of the proposed 11 agreement from the defense, we have not come to an agreement on 12 all three of them at this stage, and at this stage we're asking 13 the Court to rule on the motion to compel as to all three.

14 THE COURT: OK. Very well. We are adjourned. Thank 15 you.
